

Black natural fine granite, this type of granite is one of the hardest stone to carve (height 160 cm)

Jaroslaw Solecki is a sculptor, visual artist, performer, and maker of videos and installations. He graduated from the University of Arts in Poznan (Poland). He has lived and worked in the UK for six years. He is a PhD candidate, junior researcher in the Contemporary Literary and Artistic Culture Unit and member of the Lingua-Branding Laboratory at the Polish University Abroad in London (PUNO). He is involved in video art, artistic animation, computer graphics and performing arts in public space.

Selected Artworks and Artistic Activities

Sandstone, crafted from one block (150 cm)

Sandstone, the challenge was a small details (50cm)

Travertine, soft and fragile, hard to carve (95cm)

Hand-made portal for a fireplace, drawing and the realisation, combination of two types of marble (220 cm)

Marble, hand-sculpted architectural elements (200cm x 20cm)

Sandstone, sculpted capitals of columns, reconstruction of medieval carvings

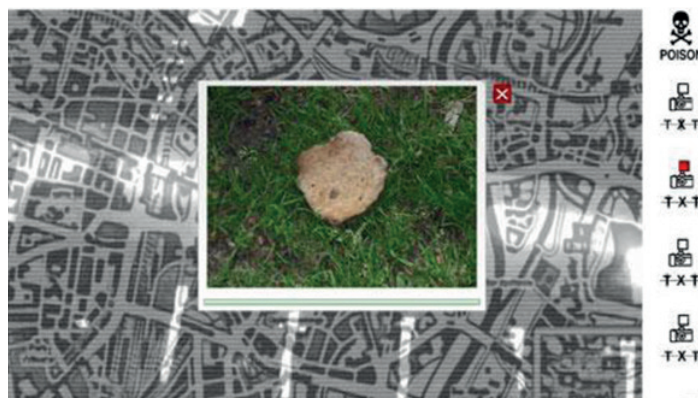

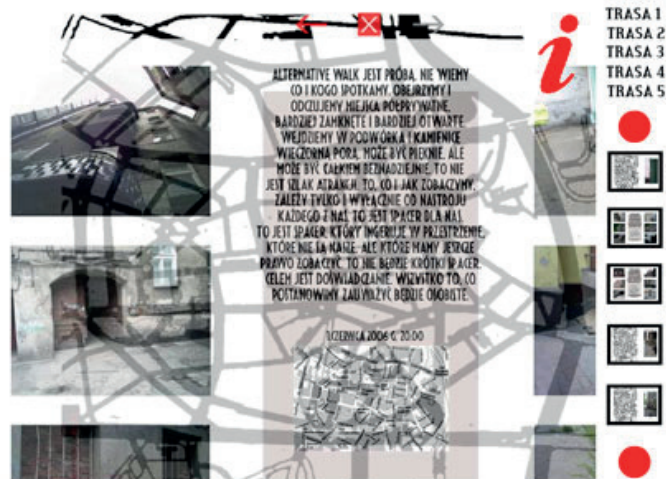

A propos, Poznań, Poland, an example of artistic action involved in the social and economic problems of Poland at the end of the first decade of the 21st century (sculpture in public space)

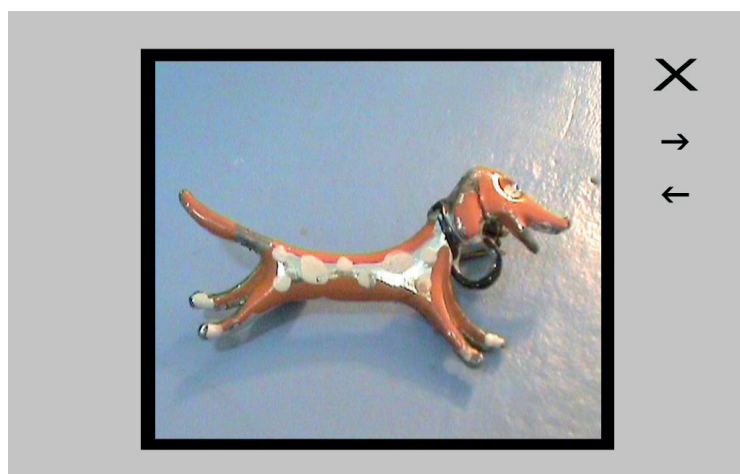

The Academy, the project on the border of critical art and cultural anthropology, which involved a group of marginalised residents of Poznań

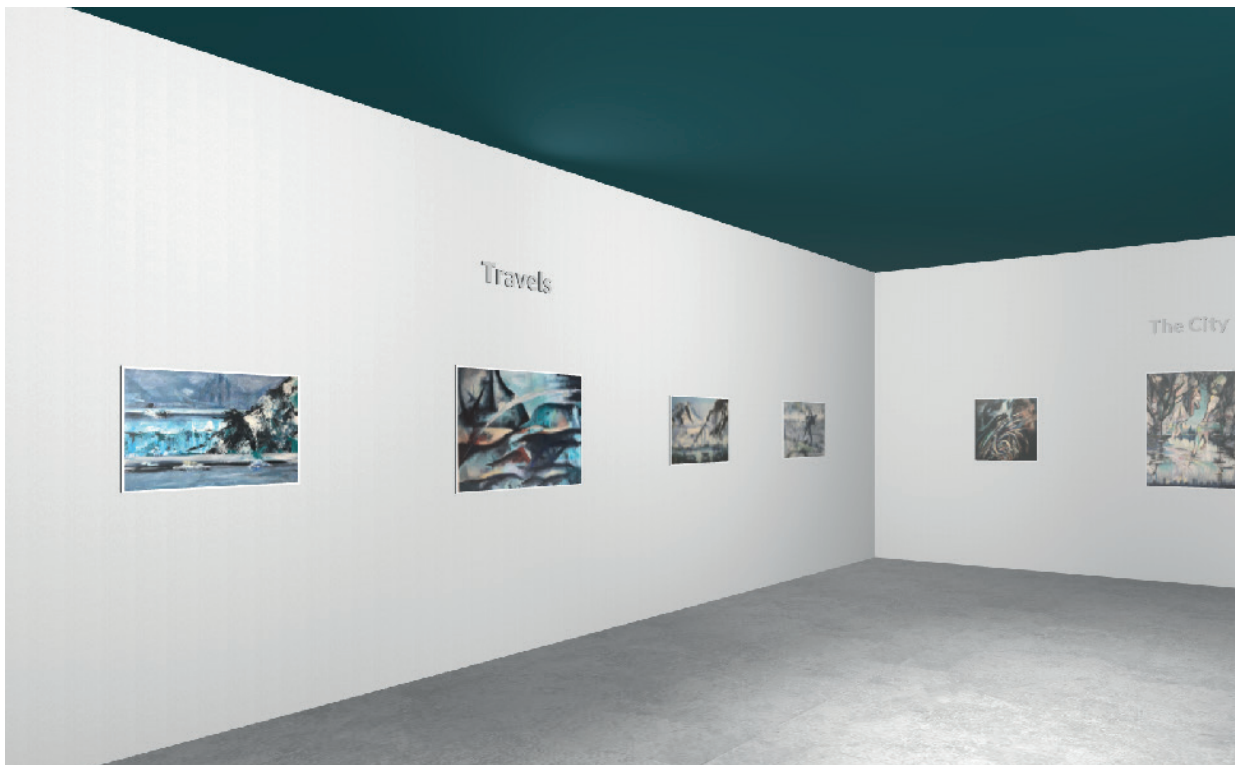

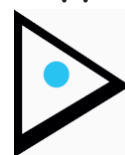

Levitation, video performance

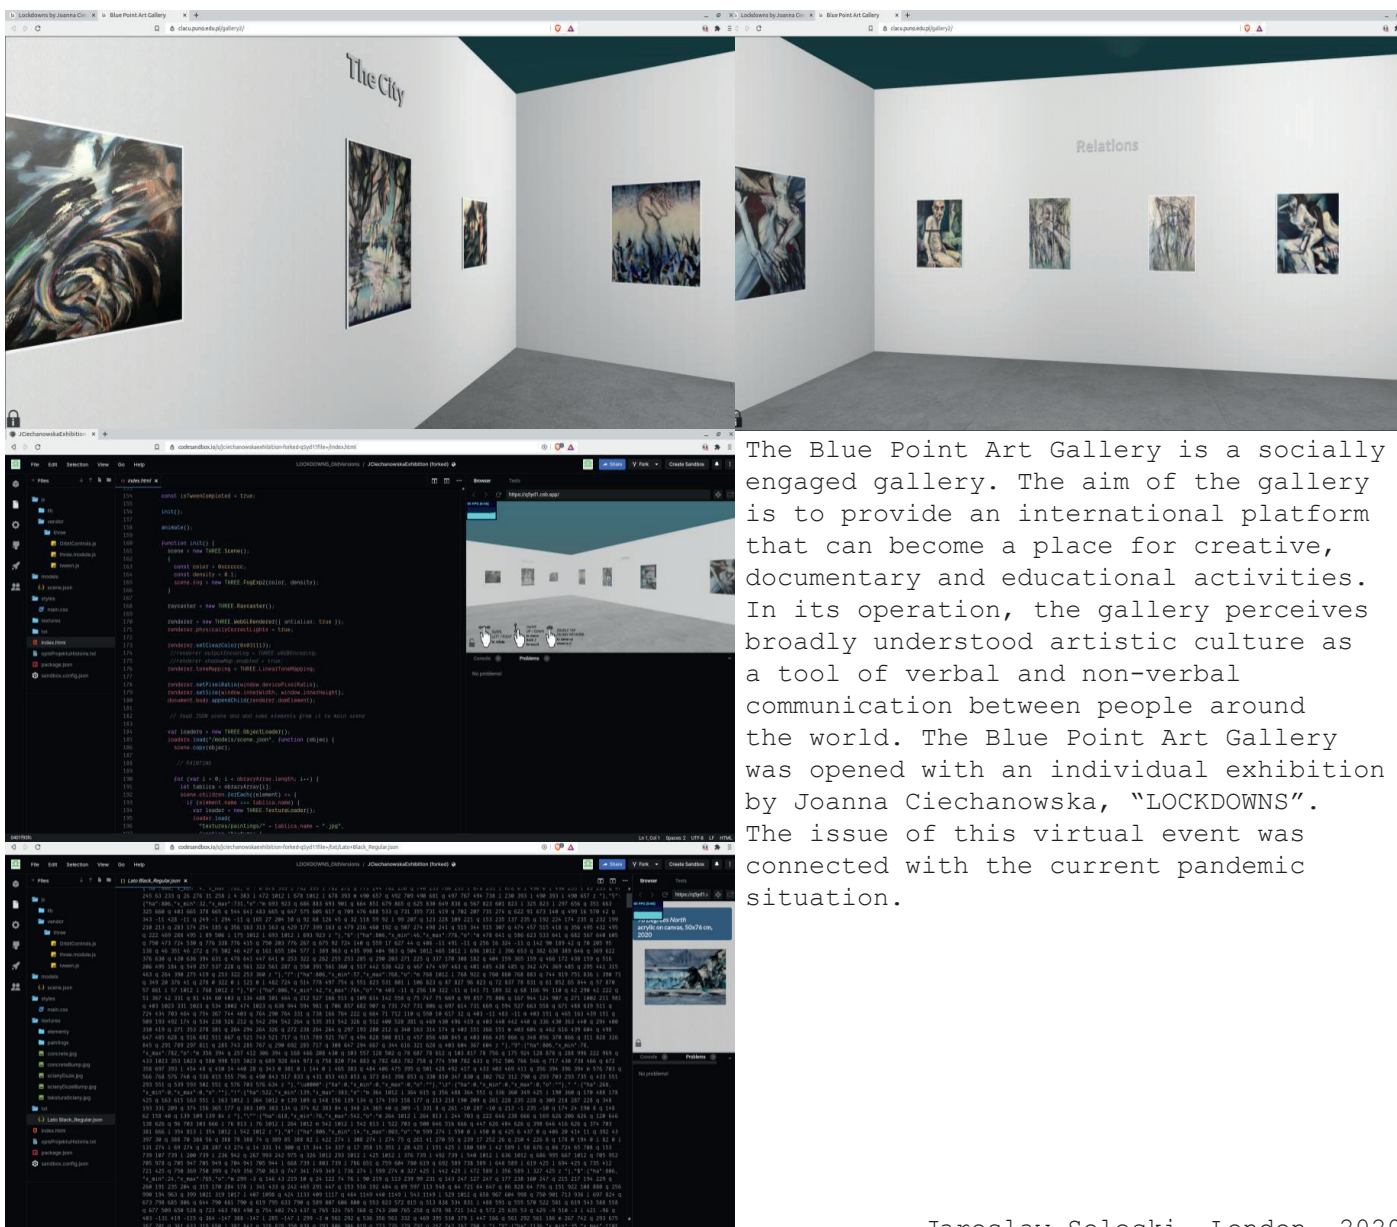

Projektowi towarzyszy akcja wlepkowania w nalazły się na trasie Festiwalu Urban Legend.
sponsoringowe przez Fundację ASP oraz Instytut
Logii Kulturowej UAM

Palimpsest Maps, Urban Legend (Festival of Art in Public Space, Poznań, Poland); virtual walk through the old district of Poznań; the project distinguished the following cartographic elements: map of courtyards, houses, sounds, things and spots

<https://clacu.puno.edu.pl/gallery2/>

The Blue Point Art Gallery is a socially engaged gallery. The aim of the gallery is to provide an international platform that can become a place for creative, documentary and educational activities. In its operation, the gallery perceives broadly understood artistic culture as a tool of verbal and non-verbal communication between people around the world. The Blue Point Art Gallery was opened with an individual exhibition by Joanna Ciechanowska, "LOCKDOWNS". The issue of this virtual event was connected with the current pandemic situation.

Jaroslav Solecki, London, 2020